Chapter I

A. Read this short version of the chapter. There are two things which didn't really happen. Find them

The Neverland is a magical island that Wendy, John and Michael pretend to be on during the day, and dream about at night. They also dream about a boy named Peter Pan. One day their mother, Mrs. Darling, asked Wendy about Peter Pan. Mrs. Darling remembered his name from when she was a child. One day they found some tree leaves on the floor of the nursery. John explained to Mrs. Darling that they were probably from Peter Pan's shoes when he came into the nursery through the window because it was too high. The next night Mrs. Darling was sitting next to the fire. After she fell asleep, the window opened and a boy came into the room. There was a strange light with him, flying around in the air. Peter was friendly to Mrs. Darling; when he saw her he smiled at her. But Nana, the family dog, chased Peter Pan back to the window. Peter jumped out, but Nana closed the window before Peter's shadow had time to get out, and the shadow was torn off. Mrs. Darling found the shadow and put it in a drawer.

Peter, Wendy, John and Michael flew for a very long time over the ocean. Finally, they saw the Neverland, and they began to fly down to it. As they flew over the Neverland, they saw things that they recognised: the lake, a flamingo, a cave, a wolf baby, and the Indian camp. They also saw Captain Hook on his pirate ship. Peter told the children about Captain Hook – how he once cut Hook's hand off during a fight. After he cut it off, he threw it into the sea. A crocodile ate his hand, and now the crocodile chases Hook all the time because he wants to eat the rest of him. But Hook can always hear the crocodile coming behind him, because the crocodile has a clock inside him and makes a ticking noise. Peter told John that if they ever meet Hook in a fight, John must let Peter fight with him alone, and John promised he would do that. They arrived on the ground, and the Lost Boys were waiting for them. Peter introduced them to Wendy and told them that she had come to be their mother and tell them stories. They all went into the Lost Boys' house, which was underground and had trees for doors. Wendy made them supper, and then told them stories in bed. Chapter 5

A. Read this short version of the chapter. There are two things which didn't really happen. Find them.

One day Peter, Wendy and the Lost Boys were at the lake, sitting on a large rock. Suddenly a boat began to come towards them, so they dove into the water to hide. Two pirates were in the boat, taking Tiger Lily to the rock to tie her up and leave her to drown. Tiger Lily began to shout for help. Peter Pan, from behind the rock, pretended to be Captain Hook by imitating his voice. He told the pirates to let the Indian princess go. But then the real Hook arrived. He did not understand why the pirates had let Tiger Lily go. Then they realised that Peter Pan was hiding behind the rock, and that he had imitated Hook's voice. Peter Pan jumped out from behind the rock and shouted to all the boys to come out and attack the pirates. There was a short fight in the water. Tiger Lily attacked Hook. Then Hook climbed up onto the rock, where he suddenly met Peter Pan. Peter Pan offered Hook his hand to help him climb the rock higher so they could fight, but Hook cut Peter's hand with his hook. Soon the crocodile came and chased Hook away. The Lost Boys went home in the pirates' boat. Peter could not fly nor swim home, so at first he and Wendy were stuck on the rock, but then they found a kite, and tied themselves to it and flew home.

Because Peter had saved Tiger Lily at the lake, the Indians were now the children's friends, and they spent every night sitting outside the Lost Boys' home, protecting it from pirates. One evening the Indians were sitting up above while, down below, Wendy was telling the Lost Boys a story. Peter liked the story very much. But John said that maybe Wendy's story wasn't true – maybe mothers sometimes forgot about their children, and didn't wait for them to come home. The children all became very nervous and decided to go home at once. Peter said that he wouldn't go with them, but he would guide them through the forest. Suddenly they heard the pirates attacking the Indians. The children waited to hear who had won the fight – if the Indians had won, they would beat their drum. The Indians lost the fight – all of them were killed expect for Tiger Lily. The pirates tricked the children by beating the Indians' drum and the children thought the Indians had won. On the deck of the pirate ship all of the children were tied up in chains. Hook's plan was for all of the children to walk the plank and fall into the sea. Suddenly everyone heard the sound of the crocodile and realised that the crocodile was coming up onto the ship. But it wasn't really the crocodile – it was Peter Pan, pretending to be the crocodile by imitating its ticking sound. While the pirates were hiding Hook, Peter ran quietly across the deck and into the ship's cabin. Hook decided to whip the children before making them walk the plank, so he told the pirate Bill Jukes to go into the cabin to get the whip. Jukes came back out, very scared, saying that there was a monster in the cabin. Hook went into the cabin too, but came out quickly because something blew out his lantern. He decided to send the children into the cabin to fight against the monster. In the cabin, Peter released the children from their chains and told them to hide. The pirates thought the monster had killed all the children. They decided to make Wendy walk the plank and fall into the sea because she was bad luck for the ship. But then they found out that it wasn't really Wendy, but Peter Pan. Peter Pan and all the boys jumped out from their hiding places and attacked the pirates. Soon all the pirates were gone except Hook. Peter wanted the boys to help him fight Hook. It was difficult, but finally Peter managed to stab Hook in the leg. Hook had no chance to win the fight, so he decided to jump into the sea. He didn't know that the crocodile was down in the water waiting for him, because the clock inside the crocodile had stopped ticking. They sailed the whole way home in the pirates' ship. The children waited to hear who had won the battle.
