Read and then choose the correct answer to questions 22-24.

New research suggests that among smokers who get lung cancer, women are nearly twice as likely as men to develop the most deadly form of the disease. Experts say that the British study represents the first time scientists have discovered a significant difference between the sexes in the risk of small-cell lung cancer. Virtually always caused by smoking, it is the hardest form of lung cancer to treat successfully. The study showed that women under 65 were 1.7 times more vulnerable than men to small-cell lung cancer, which spreads so rapidly that by the time it is diagnosed, it is usually too late to operate.

22. The most deadly form of lung cancer
 A) is more common in Britain than anywhere else
 B) is more likely to develop in men than in women
 C) tends to spread too quickly to be treated by surgery
 D) accounts for 17 percent of deaths among women under the age of 65
23. It has only recently been discovered that small cell lung cancer
 A) also affects women as frequently as it does men
 B) is the worst type of cancer
 C) can be successfully treated
 D) is more common among women than among men
24. It is stated in the passage that
 A) the chance of overcoming cancer is the lowest for patients with small-cell lung cancer
 B) British scientists were the first, to discover small-cell lung cancer
 C) new research into cancer is good news for anyone suffering from the disease
 D) scientists are hopeful of finding a cure for small-cell lung cancer

Laws are the collection of rules by which any state maintains order within a society. In Great Britain, the law-making process is conducted by Parliament. Proposed new laws are presented as Bills and if, after debate, they are accepted by a majority vote in the House of Commons, they duly become law. In Great Britain, as in most countries, there are several distinct types of laws. Constitutional law is concerned with the processes of the government itself. Company law deals with the operation of many of the nation's commercial and financial activities. These are branches of State law, that is, laws made by acts of Parliament. Common law, by contrast, is based on past decisions taken by the courts on various issues.

25. The aim of laws, as described in the passage, is

- A) to increase the government's authority over the people
 B) to protect the government and people from chaos
 C) to secure the people's control of the government
 D) to punish people who insist on violating them

26. The author informs us that Constitutional law..... .
 A) cannot be changed by simple acts of Parliament
 B) is composed of several distinct types of Bills
 C) causes great concern to Members of Parliament
 D) is related to the way the government does its job
27. As is stated In the passage, the difference between State and common laws is that..... .
 A) State laws only effect Members of Parliament, not common people
 B) common law was only valid in the past, while State law is still used
 C) only State laws actually have financial consequences to the people
 D) the former are made by acts of Parliament, the latter, by the courts

Read and then choose the correct answer to questions 28-30.

In order to avoid the traditional form, writers like the Irishman James Joyce tried to find other structures around which to build their novels. Joyce broke away from the regular beginning, middle, and end technique of earlier writers with his novel 'Ulysses'. Using the Greek mythology contained in The Odyssey 1, written by Homer , Joyce devised a completely new technique which combined Greek mythology with tales of modern life. In the novel, the adventures of Homer's Ulysses are paralleled to the happenings of one day in the life of a group of characters in Dublin, Ireland. As this novel shows, if a writer actually describes every single thing a character does throughout one day, that one day can easily produce a whole long novel'.

28. James Joyce's novel 'Ulysses'
 A) revolutionized classical Greek literature
 B) was meant to be different from novels written up to that time
 C) was a modern translation of Homer's 'Odysseus'
 D) is a traditional novel with a beginning, middle and end
29. According to the passage, 'Ulysses' reflects similarities between ...
 A) the lives of a mythological figure and a group of contemporary people
 B) the moral values of Homer's day and those of Joyce's own
 C) the writing techniques used by Homer and James Joyce
 D) the lives, over a number of years, of a number of people in Dublin
30. The passage states that the action of the novel takes place
 A) in a single day

- B) in ancient Greece
C) over a long period of time
D) in a traditional setting
