to questions 22-24.

On the third day of the new year newspapers began to report that strange things were starting to happen in the heavens, and everyone grew excited. A Planetary Collision, one London paper headed the news, and proclaimed that a strange new planet would probably collide with Neptune. The leader writers of various other newspapers enlarged upon the topic. As a result, in most of the capitals of the world, on January 3rd, there was an expectation, however vague, of some approaching phenomenon in the sky; and as the night followed the sunset round the globe, thousands of people turned their eyes skyward to see, contrary to what they had expected, nothing more exciting than the old familiar stars just as they had always been.

22. As it is clear from the passage, all that anyone saw on the night of January 3rd was ...
 A) the collision of Neptune with a new planet
 B) an unknown planet passing close to Neptune
 C) the usual night sky
 D) the familiar stars shining with extraordinary brightness
23. We understand from the passage that there was a great deal of excitement everywhere ...
 A) as soon as the new planet approached Neptune
 B) because an unknown planet had been detected from various parts of the world
 C) when newspapers announced that a collision of two planets was to be expected
 D) even before the planetary collision took place
24. One can conclude from the passage that the whole affair of planets colliding ...
 A) was apparently only of interest to the newspapers
 B) was based on scientific facts- and observations
 C) was all imaginary, and made up by the newspapers
 D) aroused little interest among the people in the world

Read and choose the correct answer to questions 25-27.

In England people begin to think about their summer holiday as early as January. As soon as the Christmas and New Year celebrations are over, newspapers and magazines are full of ads for exciting holidays both in Britain and abroad. Colourful brochures are sent out by travel agents, and in airline offices, as well as in bus and railway stations, attractive posters begin to appear, there are some people who end up with no holiday at all. They spend a lot of time arguing with their family or friends.

25. 34. According to the passage ... .
 A) people begin planning their summer holidays very early
 B) some people cannot go to holiday because they prefer to stay home
 C) there're some activities for people staying at home

26. It's stated in the passage that some people ... .

- A) stay home
 B) want to go to holidays in December
 C) can go on holiday all year
 D) think of holidays all the time

27. In the passage, people who can't go to a holiday, ... .

- A) spend their holidays at their workplaces
 B) stay home by making holiday programs
 C) send the brochures back to agents, stations etc.
 D) waste their time arguing with their family or friends at home

Read and then choose the correct answer to question 28-30.

In the past, before technology was used to monitor the weather accurately, people looked at the skies, watched how animals and plants behaved, and relied on signs and superstitions to forecast the weather. Indeed, some people still believe that, when cows lie down or a cat sneezes, It is going to rain. Nowadays, scientists who study the weather, called meteorologists, use many different methods to make their forecasts. Satellites monitor our weather and send information to computers at special processing stations. On the ground, weather stations all over the world record wind speeds and directions, temperature, clouds and air pressure.

28. It is clear from the passage that reasonably accurate weather forecasting ...
 A) is of little importance to most people in the world.
 B) is just one stage in an effort to control the climate.
 C) is now available worldwide.
 D) does not require much technological assistance.
29. As is pointed out in the passage, before the coming of technology, ...
 A) the methods used to forecast the weather are all now regarded as completely useless.
 B) people weren't really interested in weather conditions.
 C) several methods were used in an effort to forecast the weather.
 D) the only way to learn about the weather was through the behavior of plants and animals.
30. According to the passage, it is now possible, with the aid of technology, to forecast the weather, but ...
 A) much relevant material is never processed.
 B) changing wind speeds can affect predictions.
 C) long-term forecasts are still far from accurate.
 D) it is still a very complex process.
